FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

From the author of Just This Side of Heaven, a journey that celebrates life through loss, comes a compelling romance novel that will leave you breathless. Postcards, his sixth book, is an unforgettable story of trust, and love the second time around. Glass gives us every ounce of sensitivity we have come to expect from his previous works.

Postcards
By Timothy Glass writing as T. Faron

If you took Nicholas Sparks and mixed in some Danielle Steele, this is the author you would get in Faron! A fantastic read and quite the page-turner. I have to say I loved the characters in this book.
Louis Stanley, Portland, ME

Brilliantly told story of love everlasting! The characters literally jump off the pages and into your heart.
Lillian Scott, Westlake, OH

This novel is a page-turner. I laughed and cried, but in the end I found myself looking at life in a new way.
P. Martin, Katy, TX

For eight months the signed divorce papers lay untouched. Unable to deal with the divorce, Sara Ketcham heads off to a quaint little coastal town in New England with her dog, Molly. She meets Ryan Spencer, a mysterious man who intrigues her. Postcards is a romantic journey of renewal, love and trust, the second time around.

Timothy Glass was born in Pennsylvania, but he moved to the southwest with his family as a child. Tim graduated from the University of New Mexico. He spent some time in New England before moving back to Albuquerque, New Mexico, where he now resides. More than 300 of his nonfiction articles have been published both nationally and internationally. He is currently working on several writing projects, including the popular Sleepytown Beagles series. He is also a staff writer for a global monthly newsletter put out by OurDogHouse.com. Tim is also working on a nonfiction book titled, Until The End of Time, and an animated screenplay titled, Hero.
